SIXTY METHODIST MINISTERS MEET AT DALY CITY CHURCH

Sixty Methodist ministers and their wives were the guests of the Daly City Methodist church last Monday. They came from as far north as Santa Rosa and as far south as San Jose.

Dr. Blakeman, director of the Wesley foundation at the University of California, presided. Dr. J. H. N. Williams, district superintendent of the Nevada Mission district, was the speaker, his subject being "The Supremancy of the Holy Spirt in Revival Work." A discussion followed the reading of this paper. Dr. E. A. Lowther, pastor of the First Methodist church of Oakland, Dr. Frost, pastor of Trinity church, Berkeley, and several other leading pastors of the bay districts added to the discussion.

After the regular program in charge of the preacher's meeting, the pastor of the Daly City church introduced Mr. James Ferguson, principal of the Jefferson Union high school, who spoke to the ministers upon the part the schools play in the development of the child. Mrs. Frankey Mae Chisholm, of San Francisco, a very talented soprano soloist, sang several solos, and Mr. McFarland McGregor entertained the preachers with a group of Scotch songs. Mrs. Chisholm and Mr. McGregor were accompanied in a most artistic manner by Prof. T. Eugene Goudey.

After the program in the church auditorium a dainty luncheon was served in the social parlor of the church by the Ladies Aid Society. The tables were artistically decorated with beautiful California poppies.

Dr. W. J. Sherman, pastor of the Central Mehodist church, Rev. Voll, Rev. Owens and several others entertained the guests during the luncheon.

It was a most delightful affair and a desire was expressed by the ministers that they might return to Daly City church in the near future and again enjoy the hospitality of the church.

OFFICERS CHOSEN FOR GRACE CHURCH

The following officers for Grace Presbyterian chruch were elected for the new church year at the regular annual election held after the dinner on Thursday evening of last week: Wm. McKeown, Tom Swan and Jack Carnegie, elders; Mrs. Pilgrim, treasurer; Mrs. F. Alward, secretary; Andrew McKeown, Mr. Jacques, Mr. Chesterman, Mrs. Nagle, Mrs. Pilgrim and Mrs. Noble, trustees; Howard Roof and Ernest Swan, deacons; Miss Mildred Swan, pianist; Mildred Roof and Marcella Savege, assistant pianists; Wm. Rae, Sunday school superintnedent.

Dr. Willis, of the Ocean Avenue Presbyterian church, acted as moderator and expressed the thanks of all for the good will and fellowship and the desire to work among all.

The communion service will be held on the evening of March 25.

"Good, Better, Best, or the New Way," will be the subject for the evening sermon at Grace Presbyterian church next Sabbath. Some one has said it this way:

"Good, better, best, never let it rest,
Until your good is better and your better best."

Come and let us get a new view of the happy life. Splendid music and everybody sing will be the motto.

The Chapter of the Eastern Star of Daly City will attend the evening services as our guests and we hope to give them a royal welcome.

Last Sabbath was a real inspiration during the entire day, as all services were well attended by large groups and with fine interest.

At the evening time Mrs. McNair sang the real heart searching song, "Oh Love, That Will Not Let Me Go," and it brought a most worshipful spirit into the minsd of all. Miss Mildred Roof gave a splendid solo on the organ. The Parker brothers, with their violins, accompanied by Miss Mildred Swan, inspired the audience with their music.

The greatness of Jesus was manifested most in His service of humility and if we would be like Him, then let us serve.

CHAS. H. GATCHELL, Minister.

BODY OF PERALTA VICTIM FOUND OFF POINT FLEMING

Five days after the finding of the body of John W. Collins, the body of another victim of the disaster to the Key Route ferry Peralta, which has been identified as that of Daniel R. Petker, of Oakland, a former resident of Burlingame, was found last Sunday on the rocks off Point Fleming, near Albany. Charles Peretti and C. Fuhrman, of Berkeley, found the body while fishing.

PLAN OBSERVANCE OF PUBLIC SCHOOL WEEK

The annual observance of Public Schools week will be held this year during the week beginning April 23, under a proclamation issued by the Grand Master of Masons in California, Will H. Fischer.

While the observance of Public Schools week was originally instituted by the Masonic fraternity under the Mastership of Charles Albert Adams, now a member of the State Board of Education, the affair has come to have such significance that the details are conducted by citizens generally in the different localities of the state. For the first time, this year, the general committee will embrace non-Masons, a testimonial to the degree of interest the public and the press of California are exhibiting.

This year's observance—the ninth—will be a "Community Public Schools Week."

In the proclamation of the Grand Master of Masons the following phrase is used: "And that it be particularly remembered that the observance of Public Schools week is a community affair in which we seek the active co-operation of local organizations and the participation of all people in the community."

The state-wide committee that will have direction of the annual observance will be announced shortly.

WOMAN'S DAY TO BE OBESRVED MARCH 15

Woman's day will be celebrated throughout the West on March 15. The occasion is one when tribute may be paid to Western women. Special recognition will be accorded at that time to the pioneers, World war workers and mothers.

General Western offices for due observance of the event have been established in the $1,775,000 Women's Building, planned and constructed by women at Sutter and Mason streets, San Francisco.

San Francisco has given special impetus to the celebration with a proclamation issued by the mayor, in which he says: "Women's day is set apart as an occasion when San Francisco, fired with the gallant spirit of our old California grandees, may bow graciously in recognition of the achievements of the women of the West."

Every city and club in the West is invited by the committee in charge to gove some recognition to Western women on Thursday, March 15. It has been suggested that schools, churches, radio stations, clubs and offices observe the day in some special manner.

COLLIDES WITH CAR IN AVOIDING TRUCK

Miss Anna Murray, of 899 Hanover street, and Ed Patterson, of San Francisco, met with an accident last Friday morning while driving on Mission street, opposite the Mission Bell Auto Camp grounds, on their way to play golf. Miss Murray, who was driving a Chevrolet sedan, turned suddenly to avoid hitting a truck and ran directly into a street car. Miss Murray received three fractured ribs and Mr. Patterson was badly cut about the face. The automobile was badly damaged.

BUILDING PERMITS

City Clerk B. C. Ross reports the issuance of the following building permits during the past week:

Horace Fellows, 280 Peoria street, four rooms.

G. Ivison, 157 South Park avenue, addition of porch.

Mendel Plansky, 243 Hillcrest Drive, five rooms.

J. T. Shannon, 6370 Mission street, addition.

Anderson & Ringrose, Mission street, theatre building.

Standard Oil Co., School street, oil station.

August Schrickenbach, 234 Miriam street, one room addition.

ST. PATRICK'S COTUME DANCE

The members of the Jefferson Alumni Association are hustling to make their costume dance, to be given March 16 in the high school auditorium, a huge success. Invitations may be secured from members of the association or high school students. The association has been very fortunate in raising money for the Alumni scholarship award, because their dances in the past have been successful, both socially and financially. However, the entertainment committee, with the co-operation of the members, try to make the Alumni dances enjoyable for everyone. Have you your bids for March 16?

Then and Now

From the small, unpretentious one story buildings, so indicative of the outlying insignificant suburb of a big metropolis, Daly City has come a long way. The united faith of the residents of this district, backed by financial investment and continued effort to give the best possible service to those living therein, has been well repaid in the fine, modern, up-to-date row of splendid buildings which line each side of Mission street for several blocks, and which we are very proud to have known as the Daly City which was wont to be a vaudeville joke in the days gone by. It's true there was a time when the district might have somewhat merited all the fun that was made of it, inasmuch as for years progress was slow, and people were not so ready to venture beyond the "county line" when home-seeking.

But since the development of the Crocker Amazon Tract, Mission Terrace, and the gradual elimination of the vegetable gardens which hitherto lined both sides of San Jose avenue and Mission street, and which in truth gave a general aspect of "country" to those riding toward Daly City in the street cars, the ride does not seem nearly so long, because the whole journey is entirely taken up in passing street after street of modern homes which would do credit to Westwood Park, or any other of the newer districts. There are no cowpaths of long ago, no great long stretches of unoccupied terrain, no shacks, or refugee houses, and the stores are of an entirely different construction to those of twenty years ago.

The spirit of the people of Daly City, however, is the same fine progressive one that has made it "a good place to live." The only difference the years have made is that there are more of them today, and numbers of boosters is what puts a district over.

With a yearly total of 281 permits as a building record and the program for the present year bidding fair to eclipse that figure, we should have no qualms for our city's future. We of the business and residential life of Daly City have all the faith in the world in its future. Now it is up to us to get out and tell the rest of the world about its possibilities and attractions, so that we may have the population of the closer down town district spending their money with our business men, buying homes in our midst, enjoying our hospitality, and boosting our methods of conducting home and business life.

Let us get our slogan of "Shop and Save in Daly City" over in the same way as the slogan of the lower Mission district, "Buy for Less in the Mission," got over. You really are not buying for a cent less in the Mission than you ever did, but they've told everybody about it repeatedly, and as a consequence everybody really feels that one does buy for less there.

Get behind your merchants. Enable them, through your steady co-operation and patronage, to broaden the scope of their business activities, that our thriving municipality may become ever larger and more prosperous. And keep the aforesaid slogan before you at all times, and live it! "Shop and Save in Daly City."

PIONEER CELEBRATES HER 97TH BIRTHDAY

Mrs. N. N. Dexter, of 47 Vendome avenue, celebrated her ninety-seventh birthday at her home yetserday. Mrs. Dexter was born March 8, 1831. Her early home was in Boston. She was married on July 4, 1853, having two children, Ada, who was born in 1855, and her son Frank, who was born in 1861.

In 1875 she came to California, and lived in the southern part of the state until November 22, 1891, when she moved to San Francisco from Los Angeles.

Mrs. Dexter was one of the first to buy a lot in Daly City, where she has lived for the past twenty years.

Mrs. Dexter is still very industrious. She can still read and write, and is very enthusiastic about playing cards, and also likes to sew and crochet.

Mrs. A. M. Giddings was hostess to Mrs. Dexter's many friends who called during the afternoon and evening to wish her many more happy birthdays. Her friends showered her with pretty gifts and cards.

ST. MAXIMUS PARISH NOTES

Everything is in readiness for the St. Patrick's entertainment and dance to be held in the Daly City Auditorium on Saturday night, March 17. Mr. Johnny Zunino of the Lake Merritt Ducks will be on hand to entertain you with his accordion and in a character sketch with Earle Smith. Mr. Zunino is considered one of the greatest accordionists on the Pacific Coast. Master Gene McPoil will be with us on the same evening. Although only 9 years old, he is rated the greatest living impersonator of Sir Harry Lauder. We want you all to enjoy an evening that will not soon be forgoten.

Rosemarie Sundstrom, the infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Sundstrom, of 176 Crocker avenue, was baptized in the church last Sunday afternoon.

'WHERE DO YOU LIVE?' IS PASTOR'S SUBJECT

"Where Do You Live?" will be the pastor's subject for Sunday evening at the Daly City Methodist church. It is a subject that will be of interest to the entire family. We are looking forward to a real musical treat. Mrs. Gehringer and Mrs. Bennett will sing a duet. Prof T. Eugene Goudey, whose playing all enjoy and apreciate, will play for the entire service.

Sunday morning at 11 o'clock the pastor will preach his third in a series of Pre-Easter sermons, "The Personality of Power."

The Sunday school, under the leadership of Mr. Harry McKee, is making rapid progress, and we are pleased to report that to date we have the largest enrollment in the history of the church. We have classes for all ages, and we invite you to come and enjoy the fellowship and inspiration of the hour. Don't forget the hour—10 a. m.

The Epworth League is doing some mighty fine work and is a real live young peoples' organization. The leader on Sunday evening will be Miss Alberta Harper. She will review, for her topic, Chapter 6 of the book by E. Stanley Jones, "The Christ of the Indian Road."

Saturday the Sunday school will conduct a paper drive, to assist in raising funds for a proposed basketball, volleyball and handball court, to be used by the young and old of the community. We need your help. If you haven't a supply of papers in your home, we will gladly accept donations.

ELLIOTT L. FISHER, Minister.

Organize Smith Association

At a meeting of Democrats of San Mateo county held at San Mateo last Saturday, an organization was formed to be known as the Alfred E. Smith for President Association. Judge McGrath, of San Mateo, and Jos. P. Quinlan, of South San Francisco, were elected president and secretary respectively.

PUTS RESPONSIBILITY UP TO SUPERVISORS

If San Mateo county supervisors are ready to assume responsibility for accidents which occur at intersection along El Camino Real where stop signs are erected without an ordinance designating stops, the California State Automobile Association is ready to erect the signs. This was the message to the county supervisors last Monday afternoon in a letter received from J. W. Johnson, chief engineer of the association, which had previously recommended the passage of an ordinance before erecting the signs.

The supervisors had replied to the previous recommendation with a statement that they would not pass the ordinance, and asked the association to proceed with erection of the signs in the absence of an ordinance to back up the stop regulations. The communication received Monday was referred to District Attorney Swart for an opinion.

The board instructed County Engineer George A. Kneese to proceed with plans for the extension of the Gazos creek road to connect with Firescape road, extending from Governor's camp to a point near the present end of the creek road. The action was taken following the reading of a communication from Charles B. Wing of the State Highway Commission, which stated that $15,000 is to be appropriated for completing the Firescape road in the Pescadero district.

A protest against granting a business license to Charles O. Jungworth for the operation of the Golden West Kennels at Beresford was filed by the Beresford Development Association on the grounds that the kennels interfere with proper business development of the district. Decision on the protest was postponed for two weeks.

A letter from Fred H. Drake of San Carlos, president of the San Mateo County Chamber of Commerce, citing the need for a county planning commission, was read and filed.

VETERANS TO PLANT TREES DURING FOREST WEEK

Full participation of the three hundred odd Posts of the American Legion in California in American Forest week, April 22-28, during which time the planting of 50,000 trees by the ex-service men of the state will go on, has been asured by State Commander Phil Dodson of the World war veterans' organization.

Through the efforts of the Legion, the federal authorities at Washington have gotten behind the "American Green Cross," an organization dedicated to the conservation of the forests of the nation.

John R. White, superintendent of the Sequoia National Park, is the chairman of the Legion's forest conservation committee, and has joined State Commander Dodson in planning for the participation of the World war veterans in Forest week.

The movement to have the Legionnaires plant 50,000 trees in the various counties of the state during this year was instituted by Commander Dodson some weeks ago. This has attracted nation-wide attention to the California Legion's program of conservation.

ATTORNEY GEORGE C. ROSS ANSWERS LAST SUMMONS

George C. Ross, prominent attorney of San Mateo county, and for many years one of the leaders of the Republican party of California, passed away at Mills Memorial hospital last Sunday. His death followed a stroke of paralysis suffered Friday, the first illness Mr. Ross had experienced during his long life. He was 74 years years old. Mr. Ross began the practice of law in Redwood City in the seventies. He was a brilliant attorney and soon built up a splendid business. He became one of the important figures in the political and business circles of the county and was interested in matters pertaining to the upbuilding of the Peninsula. Mr. Ross is survived by his widow, Mrs. Mary D. Ross, and three sons, Hall C. Ross, Lee T. Ross, who were his associates in his legal practice in Redwood City, and Dr. Donald Ross, of San Jose.

SUSPECTS IN HOTEL THEFT ARRESTED

Two men, arrested in San Francisco under the name of Frank Mays and R. Burns, are charged by San Mateo police with having looted two roms in the Hotel Benjamin Franklin, San Mateo, on the night of February 22, taking $500 from one room and $2 from another. One of the pair put up a desperate battle before being taken into custody, forcing a San Francisco police officer to resort to the use of a gun before being captured. Both men have long criminal records, it is charged.

CANDLESTICK POINT SPAN IS APPROVED BY COUNTY BOARD

The majority of the board of supervisors of San Mateo county went on record last Monday as favoring the granting of a franchise for the erection of a bridge across San Francisco bay at Candlestick Point.

The vote stands as four voting for the franchise, one vote in the negative, which was changed to "yes" in order that a vote to reconsider might be called for. Application for the franchise and action on the application was postponed until next Monday.

When the matter of the bridge franchise application came up, Supervisor Rosalie Brown moved that the application be denied. This motion was seconded by Chairman J. W. Poole. A vote on this motion to deny the franchise resulted in three supervisors, Manuel Francis T. L. Hickey and Dr. C. V. Thompson casting their vote against the motion.

A motion that the application be granted showed more strength, Chairman Poole voting "yes." Mrs. Brown voted "yes," to bring about a reconsideration vote. It is expected that the matter will be reconsidered at the meeting of the supervisors next Monday.

The franchise application drew a big audience. There were delegations from San Francisco and many parts of the county to speak on the matter.

One of the important revelations of the meeting was information volunteered by Attorney Albert Mansfield, seeking the franchise for parties heretofore unnamed. Mansfield advised the board that despite many inuendos, it was not the Southern Pacific railroad who was seeking the bridge permit. He said that he was associated with J. W. Seligman Co., of New York, a reputable firm, he claimed.

Mansfield said that he would show the supervisors credentials as to the standing and ability of this firm at an executive session. His declaration was that a bridge to cost $27,500,000 was proposed, and that his clients were financially responsible and could negotiate such a transaction.

Horace W. Amphlett was the principal speaker against the granting of the franchise. He presented a petition signed by members of various organizations against the proposed action. Supervisor James M. McSheehy, of San Francisco, and J. J. McGrath of San Mateo, also spoke against the franchise, as did G. A. Helmore, San Bruno editor.

Attorney Aitken, representing R. W. Thompson, stated that the proposed bridge had no connection with the franchise asked for several months ago by Thompson.

POLICE OFFICERS ENJOY AFFAIR AT MOUTAIN VIEW

Members of the Peninsula Police Officers' Association met at Mountain View one night last week and enjoyed a dinner-dance and entertainment. The affair was presided over by Police Chief John Harper of Burlingame, toastmaster, and Jack Theurer, president of the association.

Committees working on the big dance to be given at Pacific City on April 14 reported extensive preparations had been made and that the dance will be attended by one of the largest crowds ever to assemble at a similar function. The next meeting of the association will be held in Burlingame on March 29.

WILL OPEN SKYLINE BOULEVARD BIDS

Bids for the construction of a 7½ one-half mile stretch of the Skyline boulevard, from La Honda to Saratoga Gap, will be called for next Monday, it has been announced by Bert R. Meek, director of the department of public works. The State Highway Commission biennial budget allows $300,000 for the road to be advertised, and approximately $789,00 for the entire boulevard. The call for bids was advanced in order to relieve the unemployment situation in the bay region, Meek explained, and as soon as the bids are received there will be no delay in awarding the contract.

DUMBARTON BRIDGE TOLL RATES RAISED

A second revision of toll rates over the Dumbarton bridge is in effect as the result of action taken last Monday by the board of supervisors. The new change is an increase of about 10 cents a trip. At a previous revision, rates were lowered. Representatives of the bridge declared they could not continue to operate under the present scale and must be granted an increase to retrieve the losses which have occurred since the bay span was opened to traffic.

BANK PLANS TO AID AGRICULTURALISTS

One more sizeable forward stride has been taken for the agriculturalists, live-stock and dairymen of California by the Bank of Italy, operating through the jointly owned National Bancitaly Company, in the formation of a corporation to extend credit and provide greater facility for the marketing of their output. This new enterprise is known as the Bankitaly Agricultural Credit Corporation and is capitalized at $1,000,000.

Under present conditions, a farmer, fruitgrower, or live-stock man is often compelled to dispose of his output at unsatisfactory prices because of the necessity of liquidating maturing note or mortgage obligations. As devised by the corporation the plan will carry him along until such time as he can dispose of his output to the best possible advantage. Thus the farmer may be able to keep his crop in the warehouse for an indefinite period through this special financing, and then sell it on a brisk demand market, making a great deal more than he would have made at forced sale, or, if he had been compelled to compete for a market with other crops maturing at the same time.

Paper issuing from loans made by the corporation will be discounted with the Federal Intermediate Credit Bank, thus making available a supply of money at rates of interest ranging from 6½ to 7 per cent. Loans to dairymen will be arranged on a monthly repayment basis, while in the case of live-stock loans maturities will be fixed in conformity with the needs of the borrower.

The entire capital stock of the corporation is owned by the National Bankitaly Company, which in turn is controlled by the stockholders of the Bank of Italy. Thus the big bank is meeting one of its chief commitments to do everything in its power to ameliorate the condition of the dairyman, the farmer, the orchardist and breeder and feeder of live stock.

The set-up of the corporation officers is particularly strong, the incorporation papers show. A. W. Hendrick, president of the National Association of Joint Stock Land Banks, president of the California Joint Stock Land Bank and an agricultural financier of national repute, is president. Harry C. Carr, former president of the California Bankers' Association and of a Porterville bank, is vice-president and manager. C. N. Hawkins, Hollister, president of the California Cattlemen's Marketing Association, is a vice-president. E. C. Aldwell, vice-president and secretary of the general executive committee of the Bank of Italy, is vice-president of the corporation also. Among the directors are F. A. Klipstine, Bakersfield, and C. Fred Holmes, Gerber. R. F. Morretti, Bank of Italy, is secretary; L. E. Wyatt, Bank of Italy, assistant manager, and H. J. Pfieffer, Bank of Italy, appraiser.

The actual operation of the corporation plans will go into effect as soon as the corporation permit has been granted by the authorities at Sacramento and the necessary sanction has been obtained from Washington, the new operation coming under the activities of the Bank of Italy as a national bank.

FIRE WASTE OUR OWN FAULT

Commenting upon the appalling fire waste in the United States, the Washington Post says:

"The average American will not take fire seriously. He lets inflammible matter collect in out-of-the-way corners. He stores combustible materials in flimsy containers. He throws lighted matches out of the window or into dry leaves in the forest. He shakes ashes from his cigar or cigarette into the waste basket. Consequently the nation is called upon to pay a fire bill of $560,000,000 in a single year, and during the past forty-nine years has dug down into its pockets for some $10,000,000,000, almost the amount owned to the United States in war debts by the allied nations, to pay for conflagrations.

"Not all fires are preventable. The majority, however, are. If Americans will take time to take care in this connection, it will mean millions of dollars saved every year."

EVERYONE TWENTIETH CENTURY ALADDINS

Everyone knows the story from the Thousand and One Nights that tells of how Aladdin, by the rubbing of a magic lamp, could summon a slave to do whatever he wished. But everyone does not appreciate that each of us has an even more powerful slave which he can call by merely pushing a button, or throwing a switch—electricity.

We live in a world of mechanical giants, superior to the gods of the old myths. Electricity, gas, raido, the telephone, numerous labor-saving device—all these make the deeds of Zeus and Thor pale into insignificance. Our slaves are numberless and they have none of the human frailties. The great Pharaohs had fleet runners to carry their messages—today John Smith has a means of communication that excels the energy and efficiency of a million such runners. The parallel could be carried much farther.

Let no one envy the monarchs of antiquity. The wonders of the twentieth century may seem prosaic, but nothing in the past, either fact or fiction, can match them.

Anyway the new modle A seems inferior to the old T as a joke breeder.

Political platforms of 1928 may be expected to carry the usual amount of deadwood.

TRAFFIC PATROLS FOR RURAL SCHOOLS

Protection of children attending rural schools against the hazards of highway traffic is being arranged in eleven counties of Northern and Central California. In these counties, excellent progress is being made in the organization of public school traffic reserves by officers of the State Motor Vehicle Division traffic force, with the co-operation of the public safety department of the California State Automobile Association.

At every rural school in Solano county where pupils must cross traffic arteries to attend classes, units of boy traffic patrols have been organized by Captain Frank Silva of the state force. Tehama county, where the work is in charge of Captain Minor Corter, reports similar excellent progress. Traffic officers and association representatives are also engaged in this safety work in Sutter, Nevada, Fresno, Sacramento, San Mateo, Placer, Madera, Siskiyou and Monterey counties.

The State Motor Vehicle Division plans to carry this activity to all rural schools under arrangements made with the Automobile Association for the extension of the public school traffic reserve organization to every county. The association, with the co-operation of school and municipal authorities, has organized units of juvenile traffic officers in thirty-nine principal cities of Northern and Central California.

MANY COMMANDED TO 'PULL TO CURB'

Commands to "pull to the curb" and explain alleged traffic law violations were given to 234,738 motorists last year by state traffic officers, according to a State Motor Vehicle Division report received recently.

An average fine of $35 per violator on all charges is revealed in the department record, showing that 13,373 motorists paid fines. Total receipts from fines were over $468,000.

The constant campaign against the "one-eyed" automobiles and other cars needing headlight adjustments caused the technical arrest of 104,933 motorists, who were ordered to have their lights adjusted.

CALLS CALIFORNIA AND SAVES TIME AND MONEY

A recent telephone call to California from Fort Wayne, Indiana, proved to be extremely good business in that it saved W. L. Wiegman, general manager of a large Indiana company, a trip to Los Angeles, which would have consumed the better part of two weeks. He was able to transact his business in seventy-one minutes by telephone and thus saved approximately 5,689 minutes for other important matters, to say nothing of the expense involved in a trip to the coast which considerably exceeded the telephone toll.

FORTUNES IN FOXES

Judging from recent reports, silver fox raising in Canada is becoming an important and profitable industry. A shipment of 95 of these beautiful animals from a ranch near Riding Mountain, Manitoba, not long ago represented a value of $47,000, according to a Winnipeg newspaper.

Starting with five pairs in 1923, this particular ranch now has about 500 foxes and employes 30 men during the busy season. Similar reports of success have come from other parts of the Dominion.

Aside from the profits which undoubtly accrue on a well-managed fox ranch, the industry has another commendable feature. The raising of the animals in this manner, whereby they are well cared for during their lifetime, is a much more humane process for securing furs than by ordinary trapping methods.

When the pelts are needed, the foxes may be put to death instantly, instead of being tortured for days in cruel traps, as often happens to less fortunate wild animals.

HOW A SMALL BOY MAKES LOVE

"Her name is Milly. I haven't said anything about marrying her yet—not to her or anybody—but I've carried her books three or four times, and I hit her in the back of the head with a soft snowball, and I guess she likes me too. She threw a snowball back at me when I hit her, and then, when I washed her face for her with snow, she just said, "Oh, George! You mean thing!' as if she might be willing to marry me sometime if I got nerve enough to ask her when we're grown up. I wonder how a fellow gets nerve enough to ask them. I don't think I'll ever have."—American Magazine.

SKIDDING

Alice, an enthusiastic motorist, was speaking to her friend, Maude, in relation to the slowness of a certain young man at proposing. "Charley seems to start easy," she remarked, "and he speeds up well; but just at the critical moment he always skids."

The only men whose political opinions differ widely now are those who belong to the same party.

Telephones in Connecticut have increased more than 1200 per cent during the last twenty-five years, from 20,760 to 280,000 instruments.

The pity is that the "unthinkable" things are not also untalkable.

Electric Rate Reduction

For Lighting NOW in Effect

New Domestic Rates in Effect April 1, 1928

$1,750,000.00 Saving

Through the application of the new electric rates, customers of this Company will save over $1,750,000.00 a year based on present use of electricity.

Average 10% Reduction

As for example in the metropolitan bay area, a customer who formerly paid $2.40 a month will now pay $2.15, or a saving of $3.00 a year, or more than one month's bill.

Lighting Cheaper

The new lighting schedules go into effect automatically with the top or maximum rate greatly reduced.

Upon application from the domestic consumer qualifying, there is offered a new rate for combined use of light and heat or power.

Domestic Rate

Where domestic consumers have lighting service and in addition use electric appliances totaling 1000 watts or more capacity this new rate applies. In the bay area a domestic consumer formerly paying $3.30 will now pay $2.60 a month, a saving of $8.40 a year, or a reduction greater than two and a half months' bill under the former lighting rate —all territory will be reduced in similar proportion.

Old Minimum Charges Abolished

In place of the former 90c, $1.00 or $1.25 minimum charges there will now be a small service charge of 40c, 50c or 70c — in accordance with the territory served.

Heating and Cooking Rates as Low as 1½ Cents Per Kilowatt Hour

The new schedules provide attractive lower rates for this class of service and are designed to encourage a greater use of electricity. These rates are among the lowest obtainable anywhere.

Make Electricity Your Household Servant

Let it brighten the gloomy corners—do the cooking—ironing—washing. Let it sweep the floors—operate the electric fan—drive away the chills. It will percolate the coffee, make the toast, keep your food cool and wholesome. It will aid you in many ways through the use of the modern electric labor saving devices, obtainable through the local electrical dealers or our offices.

Our representative will be pleased to explain how a greater use can be made of your electric service through the application of these new rates.

Electricity is cheaper—you can use more of it

The BABY

Why do so many, many babies of today escape all the little fretful spells and infantile ailments that used to worry mothers through the day, and keep them up half the night?

If you don't know the answer, you haven't discovered pure, harmless Castoria. It is sweet to the taste, and sweet in the little stomach. And its gentle influence seems felt all through the tiny system. Not even a distasteful dose of castor oil does so much good.

Fletcher's Castoria is purely vegetable, so you may give it freely, at first sign of colic; or constipation; or diarrhea. Or those many times when you just don't know what is the matter. For real sickness, call the doctor, always. At other times, a few drops of Fletcher's Castoria.

The doctor often tells you to do just that; and always says Fletcher's. Other preparations may be just as pure, just as free from dangerous drugs, but why experiment? Besides, the book on care and feeding of babies that comes with Fletcher's Castoria is worth its weight in gold!

Horns in Odd Place Handicap to Rooster

Now the rooster has joined the list of horned animals. At least one rooster has, for on an Arkansas alligator farm in Hot Springs is a large white rooster with two horns sticking out from his head, one on each side. The horns, which are of bone and two or three inches long, give the rooster a most uncanny appearance.

This freak bird, unlike his brothers, has practically no spurs to use in his fights. Nature, after giving him these horns, apparently decided that spurs were useless, and they seem to be, for it is said that one look at his horns is enough to set the other roosters going in the opposite direction.

With the pullets it is a different matter. They evidently prefer spurs. So the horned rooster has his troubles. The roosters won't fight him, and the pullets ignore him. All he can do is to crow his sad tale of being different to the world at large.—Kansas City Star.

Ben Emerson of Ripley, Tenn., and Miss Media Mitchell of Memphis, Tenn., drove downtown in the latter city to be married, but a parking place was out of the question. Circling a block, they summoned Squire Coleman on the run and with the squire on the running board the next trip around the nuptial tangle was completed. They dropped the squire at his office and the groom stepped on the gas and a honeymoon was on.

"What put this idea into your head, that he might marry a county teacher?" Mr. Creighton anxiously asked. "If he'd go that far—disgrace me with a low marriage—"

St. Croix realized, as he told his father the grounds of his fears, that they sounded rather insubstantial. "But he must have been closeted a long time with that girl this afternoon, for it was nearly two hours after closing time," he explained. "And he seems to haunt her schoolhouse!"

"She's young and pretty, I suppose?"

"Young and pretty, yes, but deadly common!"

"How do you know? Ever met her yourself?"

"Yes. She's a relative of the farmer, Sam Schwenckton, and boards at his farm. I met her that night Sam Schwenckton snitched my watch."

"Attractive?"

St. Croix nodded. "But an impossible little vulgarian. I can't imagine why they let such illiterates teach our schools. She murders the English language as terribly as any uneducated Pennsylvania Dutch girl does!"

"I scarcely believe, St. Croix, that Marvin could be attracted to such a girl as you describe. He doesn't usually let his senses blur his judgment."

"I'd think, too, but for what I've seen with my own eyes, Father. If he could tolerate her for two hours—alone in her schoolroom with her—and then walk home with her for a mile—I should think he must be pretty far gone!"

"It wouldn't matter how far gone he were if it weren't that the young fool's apt, as you say, to marry her! Consideration for his family, for his mother—trifles like that!—would not stop him! Well, I'll nip it! I'll investigate the thing and if there's anything in it, I'll bribe the girl to go away."

"But wait—we haven't much evidence; it would be a pity to let her hold you up for a pile of money if there's nothing in it."

"I'll soon find out whether there's anything in it."

"But how?"

"If I can contrive to get in touch with her, the rest will be easy!"

"The danger of interfering is that it often starts just what you meant to prevent!"

"I wasn't born yesterday, St. Croix. Once I meet the girl, I'll soon find out enough to guide me. If I waited for indisputable evidence, I might be too late. I suppose I could drop in to see her at her school just at closing time, don't you think? Do you know what time in the afternoon the school closes?"

"About four o'clock."

"I'll look her over on Monday. It won't do to dally with such a possibility! I'm fast coming to the point of resigning myself to the fact that Marvin can't be coerced. Very well, then, we've got to circumvent him!"

"Conceited, obstinate ass!" muttered St. Croix.

"Nothing of the kind! He has one of the few qualities in which men differ from sheep. Backbone. He has backbone. Stands upright on his own. Refuses to get down on all fours and run after a tinkling leader!"

"Steps out from the herd and throws the whole works into disorder!" St. Croix contended.

"He would say he was starting them on a better path—away from the slaughter house."

"Sounds as if you agreed with him, Father!"

"You know better. But I respect his backbone. Gets it from me," Mr. Creighton concluded, as at this moment the waiter presented the bill and St. Croix rose from the table.

CHAPTER VII

When Marvin Creighton reached his father's house that same evening, he found, to his dismay, all the driveways about the place filled with limousines. A party on? But that was unlikely, for now that he no longer lived at home, he and his mother valued these Thursday evenings together too much to let anything interfere with them. This evening he especially wanted to see her alone for the reasons he had accurately stated to Miss Schwenckton—he wanted to see the photograph he had asked his mother to unearth and he wanted very much to hear about the English mail she had received.

He surmised that he had probably come in at the tail end of an afternoon club meeting—the "Quo Non Ascendus club," probably. Well, he didn't want to be caught in that bedlam! So he stole in at a side door and went upstairs to his own rooms.

The familiar sight of his bedroom and study, to which he could now come only on brief visits in his father's absence, depressed him. It all seemed so unnecessary, this bitter controversy between him and his father! Yet it was not a light thing of recent growth, but deep-rooted in their essential differences of temperament and character and outlook—his father being quite frankly primitive and "human" (he claimed) in his gospel of self-interest, while he himself was inherently, unconquerably socially minded. From his boyhood up his father had tried in vain to knock out of him his unbusiness-like consideration of the other fellow's point of view; and it had ended at last in their being unable to live under the same roof.

The hardest part of it to Marvin was the distress it caused his mother. If anything could have made him deny his soul it was that.

While he freshened up in his bathroom, reveling in its conveniences and comforts (there was no bathroom at Absalom Puntz') he wondered how Miss Schwenckton, who looked so dainty and seemed so fastidious, endured the crude life at Schwenckton's farm. She didn't fit into the picture.

He knew the party must break up soon, for it was nearly dinner time and most of these people had several miles to drive; and a few empty cups and saucers about the hall which the servants had overlooked told him they had already had tea.

How did his mother, comparatively intelligent, stand that crowd? And yet, how else would she fill her life, emptied, through her great wealth, of the wholesome necessity to work? Superfluous wealth was a joy-killer as surely as poverty.

The visitors were gone at last and Marvin went downstairs to take his mother in his arms.

It was cozy having his dinner alone with his mother; and the taste and comforts of his home, after his dose of Absalom Puntz' menage, were certainly soothing.

"Father thinks a dose of plain living will cure me!" Marvin smiled as he helped himself to fillet of steak and mushrooms the butler was passing. "On the contrary, living at Absalom Puntz' has made me realize, as I never did before, how much unnecessary luxury we have here, which I always took for granted, not knowing any other way of life. So this throwing me out on my own is just having the opposite effect of what he intended it to have."

"I don't like to think of your living in such discomfort, dear," his mother answered, "though you're not looking any the worse for it! But how in the world do you stand their food?"

"It's good. I walk about the country so much that anything tastes good. I'm getting to like sauerkraut and boiled beef and cabbage! Bully! And fried ponhaus! And even smearcase!"

"Imagine St. Croix eating at the table with those Puntzes!" Mrs. Creighton smiled. "Sauerkraut and smearcase and ponhaus!"

"It's not their food so much as the way they eat it that 'kreistles' me. Know what 'kreistles' means? Of course you don't. Means disgust, rubs me the wrong way, gets my goat. I can't watch them eat; they are too darned industrious about it."

"Marvin, I want to ask you something—I'm worried. St. Croix is philandering, I'm afraid, with a very common girl and I do dread what can come of such entanglements. It's so imprudent! You get about the country so much I thought perhaps you had heard or seen something of it, have you? Do you know who the girl is?"

"No," Marvin responded gloomily, his heart sinking; that car of his brother's near the William Penn school and Miss Schwenckton pretending she had remained in school to work when she had been out on the road—and that weird business of her changing her clothes—"How did you hear of it, Mother?"

"The girl sent a box of fudge here to the house for him, with a verse written on the wrapping paper—the poetry being as home-made as the candy! I gave it to him when he came home and he was so embarrassed and angry I knew he must be involved rather deeply—and I've been worried!"

"What makes you conclude, Mother, that she's a 'common' girl?"

"Her poetry!

"When you receive this box of futch
You'll mebby think it ain't so mutch.
But in one piece I put a kiss.
You'll know which one—the sweetest 'tis."

Marvin laughed joyfully—the author of that was not Miss Schwenckton!

"St. Croix certainly takes his chances, playing 'round with one of these Pennsylvania Dutch girls! First thing he knows he'll have a lawsuit on his hands. But I think," he tried to comfort his mother, "we may always bank on St. Croix' playing safe. Philandering is of course always dangerous where a suit for damages offers a big haul—but in St. Croix' philosophy of life, Prudence and Respectability are such influential factors I think we needn't be anxious."

"Well, I hope so," she sighed. "Another thing I wanted to ask you—do you know, I'm beginning to think, Marvin, that there's more to this affair with our English cousins than meets the eye?"

"Aha! You are? Well, so am I! Go on—what's yours?"

"You know that for months St. Croix has been planning to go to England to see Lady Sylvia—and, Marvin, they keep holding him off! Their latest letter says Lady Sylvia has gone abroad. Now, of course they've no money to let her travel about the continent, so I'm sure she must have taken a position as traveling companion or governess. I'm beginning to suspect, dear, that she's as much averse to this rather ridiculous marriage scheme as you are yourself!"

"I should think she would be! Probably she prefers earning her own living!"

"But she can't earn enough to save the estate!"

"It's possible she may think more of her self-respect than of the estate."

"Well, her parents don't admit anything like that—they probably hope to persuade her—to bring her 'round."

"Vain hope, if she's a girl that's worth anything."

"Yes—only you must remember that the English don't regard such marriages as we do, they're so used to them."

"If she marries St. Croix, she's no better than any other courtesan that sells herself!"

"What are your suspicions, Marvin?"

"My 'suspicions'?"

"You said you agreed with me that there seemed more to this affair than meets the eye."

"Exactly. But let's not go so fast. About the girl's being 'abroad,' now—perhaps it's here, to America, that she has come to earn her living!"

Mrs. Creighton looked startled. "What makes you think that? Do you know that she has?"

Marvin regarded his mother uncertainly—a wild possibility flashing upon his mind. His mother was always perfectly open with him, but she was conscientiously loyal to his father and if his father had asked her to keep a certain secret she would certainly try to do it.

"Mother," he asked, his quiet tone concealing his strong feeling, "do you know that she's here?"—for perhaps he was being "worked"; perhaps the girl had been brought over here and placed where she was bound to cross his path, his father hoping that when his son met her without knowing who she was, he might "fall for her"; and all this talk about St. Croix marrying her was perhaps a bluff to throw him (Marvin) off the scent! Could this be possible?

Was the girl conniving with his father to trap him, that her family and her home might enjoy the Creighton millions? And was his mother playing a silent hand? But a girl that could lend herself to such a plot! He felt a revulsion of feeling against her at the bare thought of it and his heart sank like lead in his breast.

He would demand the truth from his mother; she would not deny it. He put down his coffee cup and took both her hands in his. "You know, of course, Mother, why I asked to see that photograph?" he hazarded.

"Why, no, Marvin, I don't," she answered, very puzzled. "Why did you? And what on earth makes you think she may be here?"

"Mother, what do you know about this idiotic business? Let me have the truth!"

"I don't know a thing about it, dear, that you don't know, or not as much, evidently. What do you mean?"

"You don't know whether Lady Sylvia St. Croix is in America?"

"Of course I don't. Why?"

The possibility still remained that his father and Lady Sylvia might be working without his mother's knowledge.

Here was an acid test of his suspicion. "Are you sure St. Croix means to go over to England and try for her?"

"Why of course! Why should I doubt it? He's crazy about it! You know that, dear. And so is your father. What is in your mind, dear?"

Marvin dropped her hands, leaned back in the deep couch and folded his arms. "I suppose I'm a fool, but I had a suspicion for a moment that Father had got the girl over here and was jabbing her on to me on the sly!"

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

Lightning Thought to Drill Hole in Glass

If any reader should find one of his window panes perforated by a perfectly round hole, without apparent cause, the first question he should ask is, Has there been a thunderstorm in this neighborhood recently? If the answer is in the affirmative, he may conclude that Jupiter Tonans, the lord of the thunderbolts, in playful mood has sent one of them through the glass. In ordinary English, the pane has been struck by lightning.

That is what probably happened to the plate-glass window of a New York building recently. A minute hole appeared mysteriously in the glass. Three employees were at work inside the window, and all three heard a distinct report. Particles of glass fell on one of them. Search failed to reveal any bullet or other object that might have caused the hole. It seems to have been due to one of the mysterious pranks of lightning.

THE DEADLY SUBMARINE

Of all the destructive inventions of man, none is more utterly indefensible than the deadly submarine. Civilization should rise up with one accord and demand its abolishment.

The submarine is incapable of use for any purpose whatever except to spread destruction and death, in both peace and war. While it is futile to hope that agreements can be reached to do away with other naval vessels, there is no reason why all nations should not agree to scrap their submarines for the sake of humanity.

Congressman Frothingham of Massachusetts aptly described submarines recently as "implements of murder in war time and implements of suicide in peace time."

Secretary Kellogg has declared that the United States is "willing to sign a treaty with all the powers of the world prohibiting the use of submarines entirely." Great Britain long ago made a similar declaration.

With the sanction of the world's two greatest powers and the practical assent of several others, the movement should rapidly gain momentum until this highly desirable result shall be accomplished.

CURBING BILLBOARDS

From widely separated localities comes news of efforts being made to place a curb on the encroachments of billboards, which deface the natural scenery and offend the sensibilities of all lovers of natural beauty.

State Senator Ward Swank of the Virginia general assembly has introduced a bill providing for the restriction, regulation and licensing of outdoor advertising in that state. His bill is approved by many civic organizations which have grown impatient through witnessing the spread of offensive billboards which mar the face of nature.

In many other states and municipalities similar steps have been taken to abolish, or at least mitigate, the billboard nuisance, which is obnoxious to observers and a builder of bad will for those firms who encourage it through a misguided estimate of advertising values.

ELECTRICAL FARMS

A forward looking movement reported from Winnipeg is that to establish in the province of Manitoba a dozen electrical test farms. The plan is sponsored by representatives of power, agricultural and manufacturing interests, and will probably be aided by a general committee headed by D. L. McLean, deputy minister of public works.

The idea is to foster, through practical demonstrations, the extension of electricity to the farms of the province, in order that agriculture may share the benefits which industry and urban life have received from this poten force for economic and social improvement.

Farm electrification has already made considerable headway in the United States, through the co-operation of interests similar to those behind the Manitoba movement. That it will spread rapidly in all sections where conditions are in any way favorable for its adoption can not be doubted.

In some localities both corns and "corn" appear to have gained quite a foothold.

BREEDING DISCORD

Thoughtful persons are frequently impressed with the pernicious influence of wild talking and writing which create unnnecessary discord.

Probably most of the antagonisms and enmities which disturb the world might be traced directly to irresponsible or vicious utterances.

Not only do such utterances affect individuals, making enemies among those who ought to be friends, but they are productive of serious discord and warlike tendencies among nations.

Grave injury to the cause of peace is done by intemperate pronouncements of psuedo-statesmen, who recklessly disregard the opinions and the sensibilities of other nations in order to convey an exaggerated idea of their own patriotism. Every nation has its quota of these jingoes, who would imperil international relations for the sake of popular applause at home.

Too many newspapers illustrate the same tendency through irritating editorial expressions, which cause unfavorable reactions when reprinted in other countries, and make the task of diplomats increasingly difficult.

It goes without saying that citizens should take a firm stand whenever important interests of their country are at stake, but this may be done in a reasonable and dignified spirit, without resorting to unnecessarily offensive utterances.

Statesmen and nationals of all countries might contribute measurably to the cause of world peace by refraining from violent and illconsidered outbursts which tend to breed discord and even war.

HONORS FOR A KILLER

In all ages mankind has showered honors upon killers of their fellow men. But in order to obtain those honors it has generally been necessary to kill on a grand scale; to-wit, in war.

In Beeton, Ontario, however, the good townsfolk have deemed it proper to honor a killer who killed only one fellowman. The honoree in this instance was Alex Hodge, who was given an elaborate reception, a purse of money and a gold watch in recognition of his achievement. And these attentions, the donors of the awards claim, were fully deserved.

One night last summer Mr. Hodge boldly attacked one David Forsythe, who was caught in the act of robbing the Hodge farm house, and, with no weapon but his two good fists, beat the bandit to death.

Besides, Hodge was instrumental in rounding up a gang of cattle thieves in his section, causing their arrest and punishment. For this he has been given a good position by the Ontario government in connection with the province experimental farm at Whitby.

No right-minded person applauds killing as a general proposition, but it would probably be well for human society if we had more people who, in the face of an emergency, might match the resolute courage and physical stamina of Alex Hodge.

MASTER FARMER'S PLAN

Among the ten outstanding farmers of Alabama upon whom was conferred the degree of Master Farmer last year is John R. Witt, who was for several years vice-president of the State Farm Bureau Federation. His success in conducting profitable farming operations under difficulties makes his views interesting and important to all farmers, wherever located, as the general principles he advocates are applicable elsewhere.

In a recent statement, Mr. Witt outlined his farm program for 1928, which is briefly summarized thus:

"First, produce crops economically by intensive preparation, cultivation and fertilization.

"Second, conserve and improve your soil, realizing that the safety of our nation depends upon its productiveness.

"Third, strive to be an intelligent farmer by close co-operation with the agricultural departments of the county, state and nation. Read our agricultural papers.

"Fourth, co-operate with farm organizations in buying and selling. This organized effort will better the conditions of our farm people and place them on a parity with people of other vocations."

These points, coupled with a policy of raising food and feed at home, through gardens, cows, hogs and poultry, embrace a safe and sound program which may be proftably followed in any farming community.

HENPECKED HUSBANDS

Henpecked husbands were applauded by Dr. C. W. Kimmins, a British educational leader, in an address before a women's luncheon club in New York recently. His tribute must have been gratifying to both the wives and husbands concerned. He said:

"The henpecked husband is the most delightful and childinsh person in the world. Some henpecked husbands are not really henpecked; they are hen-protected."

Another encouraging statement which he made in this connection was that "henpecked husbands live longer than those who are not henpecked."

We must agree that even though they may not actually live longer, it no doubt seems longer.

Provincetown, Mass., is the only American town that still has a town crier. But all of them have billboards.

GENIUS IN PRISON

From Georgia comes another story of a convict who has improved his opportunities for thinking while detained within prison walls.

Jeff Harrison, while working in the cotton mills of the Atlanta federal penitentiary under a sentence for mail robbery, has invented a device whereby a loom is automatically stopped whenever a thread breaks, or some other accident occurs. Without such a device, much damage to machinery is frequently caused by such accidents. According to a press dispatch, Harrison's invention may make him wealthy.

This calls to mind the many manifestations of genius which have occurred among prisoners. Some of the great works of literature have been composed behind prison bars, and many useful ideas have been evolved through the undisturbed meditations of convicts so confined.

All of which suggests that persons whose movements are not so restricted might profitably take time to do some concentrated thinking. In the hustle and bustle of every-day life we are prone to neglect the beneficial results of such concentration. Possibly it would be a good idea if more of us were shut up occasionally with nothing to do but think.

WIDER HIGHWAYS

Wider roads are everywhere in demand. Increased traffic on our public highways makes wider roads a prime essential, and public officials who fail to take this vital fact into the reckoning make a mistake.

According to a writer in the Memphis Commercial Appeal, "road widening has become a definite policy in several states in which the automobile registration is high. One of these states has been adding strips of paving from three to six feet to some of its roads; another is placing along its roads lateral extensions of from twelve to eighteen feet, and these widening policies are particularly to be noted in metropolitan areas around some of the larger and most important cities of the country. Narrow roads do not take care of the traffic, and besides, they are more dangerous than the roads of wider types."

NOTICE

Of General Municipal Election of Daly City on April 9, 1928.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that a general municipal election in and for the City of Daly City will be held on Monday, the 9th day of April, 1928, at which election the following offices shall be filled:

Two (2) members of the City Council.
One (1) City Clerk.
One (1) City Treasurer.

For the purpose of said election in said City, the City of Daly City shall be, and is, hereby divided into six (6) consolidated election precincts, to be known and described as "Daly City Municipal Election Precinct A," "Daly City Municipal Election Precinct B," "Daly City Municipal Election Precinct C," Daly City Municipal Election Precinct D," "Daly City Municipal Election Precinct E," Daly City Municipal Election Precinct F," which said six (6) election precincts shall severally contain such territory in the City of Daly City as is provided herein.

For such general municipal election the City Council has appointed one (1) inspector, two (2) clerks and one (1) judge, to have charge of such election in and for each municipal election voting precinct.

Colma News Notes

Mr. Louis Boetto, of San Pedro avenue, made a business trip to Menlo Park during the week.

Mrs. Antone Sturla, of Market street, spent one day of this week visiting relatives in South San Francisco.

The children of the Eighth grade of the Crocker school enjoyed a hike to Mount Tamalpais, accompanied by Professor Savage.

Bennie Haubrich attended a barbecue in Visitacion valley last Sunday. The affair was given by Fred Lagomarsino and Victor Rossi.

Mr. and Mrs. Al Banditini, of San Pedro avenue, visited Mr. and Mrs. Mitchell Farmer and son, of Daly City, one evening last week.

The members of La Fiesta Social Club enjoyed a hike to Mount Tamalpais last Sunday. An early start was made and all had such a good time they plan another hike in the near future.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Heeringa, of Price street, are spending several days with the latter's sister, Mrs. Edward Bauer, of San Jose. The Bauer family moved from their home here to San Jose last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Fischer visited at the Rob Silva home in Palo Alto last Sunday.

On Saturday evening, March 24, the Girls' Club of Colma will entertain at their annual whist game in the Colma Community Center building. A good time is assured all who attend.

A meeting of El Carmelo Parlor No. 181, Native Daughters of the Golden West, was held in Masonic Hall, Daly City, on Wednesday evening, with President Alice Mathais presiding. A dance will be given in the near future under the direction of Dolores Barron.

Don't forget that Saturday evening, March 10, is the occasion of the big whist party and social sponsored by the Colma Volunteer Fire Department. The affair will be held in Jefson Hall, on San Pedro avenue. Every resident of Colma is expected to be present, as the fire laddies surely know how to entertain.

Under the capable management of Mrs. Guerrino Ricci, of San Francisco, formerly of Colma, the monthly whist party of the Colma Community Center proved a financial and social success. A large crowd of local whist players, as well as many from San Francisco, were present. Among those who were awarded honors at whist were Miss Fabian Ver Linden, Miss Gussie Kohler, Mrs. F. Alberts, of San Francisco, Mrs. aJck Callan, Mrs. Kert of South San Farncisco, Ray Zanetti of San Bruno, Mrs. John P. Moresco of San Francisco, John Witt, Mrs. K. Sether of San Francisco, Mrs. M. W. Beasley, George Wright, Albert Sturla of South San Francisco, Mrs. Albert Silicani, Mr. Louis Kert of South San Francisco, and Mrs. Fred Schmidt of San Francisco. After the game, dancing was enjoyed by all. The next of these enjoyable whists will be held the first Saturday in April, at the Center, and will be in charge of Mrs. Thomas Schmidt, of South San Francisco, formerly Wilma Nevil, of Colma.

After extensive alterations, including new upholstered chairs, redecorating and a complete change in the quality of pictures to be shown, the New Colma Theatre will open tomorrow, Saturday, March 10, under the direction of the Garibaldi brothers, well known residents of Colma.

On Thursday evening, March 8, the Girls' Club of Colma met at the home of Mrs. H. W. Brown, on Dunk street, where they had a very enjoyable evening. A delicious supper was prepared and served to all present, and during the meal much merrymaking and fun was had. The regular business meeting was called to order by President Miss Fabian Ver Linden and the minutes were read by Miss Elsie Wilke, secretary. Plans for a big whist party to be held on Saturday evening, March 24, were made. The affair will be at the Center building on Dunk street, and a large crowd is expected. After the game refreshments will be served and dancing and games will follow. The proceeds of this annual affair will be used for subscribing to magazines for the veterans at the Base hospital in Palo Alto, which has been the custom for many years past. So don't forget your attendance at the big whist party will help make some lonely soldier boys happy.

SIDELIGHTS

Here's something to think about: Twenty English prisons are offered for sale because they lack occupants; American jails are filled and many more ought to be. Did the reaction from the war reduce crime in England and increase it in the United States?

According to a story from Hawaii, an 85-year-old lady, Mrs. Wilhemine Alf, has not missed a movie in her home town for eight years. The Hilo Tribune-Herald observes that "some people seem to delight in punishing themselves."

A bill has been introduced in Congress which would prohibit the use of "loud, threatening or abusive language" around the capitol building. The proposed law would probably apply only to ordinary citizens and taxpayers. No such cruel restrictions should be imposed upon our national lawmakers.

The sweetest story of the season comes from the liner California, on which Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Sugar and Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Honeford sailed, the captain being Commander H. A. T. Candy.

At an age when many are figuring seriously on their chances for acquiring a pair of celestial wings, James W. Montee, of Los Angeles, decided to do a little terrestrial flying. He recently passed his test for a goverment airplane pilot's license at the age of 65.

The advisability of teaching children early how to use the telephone was illustrated in Memphis recently. When she found her mother lying overcome by gas from a broken pipe, 4-year-old Frances Liberto telephoned her father, who arrived in time to save the mother's life.

Jack Kearns sued Jack Dempsey for $333,333.33 some time ago, claiming that amount as one-third of Dempsey's purse in his first Tunney fight. Now Mr. Kearns is reminded that Dempsey made some money on his foreign tour and amends his suit by adding $83,333.33 to the original claim. The great gullible public who put up the money in the first place will hardly worry much about this lawsuit.

BOYS AND GIRLS

Harold McKeen, a Saskatchewan farm boy, won four prizes, including highest place in dairy cattle judging, at Regina, receiving a silver trophy and a Holstein bull calf as rewards.

The Girl Scouts, organized in Savananah, Ga., 15 years ago, grew from an original membership of eight to a present total of more than 168,000.

Max McClure, aged 14, of Lawrence, Kansas, grew the biggest ear of corn produced in that state last year, it being 16 inches long. He also raised enough corn to feed the family's hogs and pay his way in school.

Marion McQuall, 15, of Darlington, Wisconson, owns a violin which has been in her family for 50 years and was recently found to have inside the inscription "Stradivarius Cremona, Anno 1721." Experts are to determine whether it is genuine.

"THE DESERT SONG" COMING TO THE CURRAN NEXT WEEK

There is coming to the Curran Theatre next Monday evening a musical show of the Percival Wren people of Northern Africa with all the color and atmosphere of the "Beau Geste" country, shieks, dancing girls and men of the French Legion and Riff hills who are men. Lillian Albertson is sponsoring the production.

Operettas have previously surrounded the people of nearly all European and Asiatic countries, but it has taken until the year 1927 to discover that one of the world's most romantic spots is Colonial North Africa, along the border of civilization.

"The Desert Song" bears promise to excel in popularity some other operettas of the last year or two. It rings up on a chorus of some twenty Riff warriors singing a stirring riding song. They can sing. If "The Song of the Vagabonds" is vibrant and moving, this riding song "Ho!" sung by Perry Askam and a male chorus, should have the capacity of drawing a similar response. In addition to Mr. Askam, last seen in San Francisco in "Castles in the Air," will be found Johnny Arthur in the comedy role of a newspaper reporter. Tanzi, the enchanting 18-year-old Italian prima donna, is seen as Margot. Nora White, Lionel Braham, John Merkyl, Nanette Gallon, Gary Breckner, Myrah Hubert, Myrtis Crinley, John Wagner and F. Peters complete the cast.

"The Desert Song" is already the rage in New York, London, Berlin, Paris, Chicago, and more recently in Los Angeles, where it has played to eleven weeks of capacity business, and could remain for many more weeks.

Pony Took "Stop Off"

A Shetland pony escaped injury when it leaped from an express car at Newton, Kan., while the train was traveling about 40 miles an hour. Express messengers did not notice the pony's absence until the train had gone a considerable distance. The Newton officials were notified and the missing passenger was found calmly grazing on the right-of-way. The pony finished its journey on another train.

Cat Finds Only Bridge

How Bonzo, a black cat belonging to Bert Pierson of Hertz, England, found his way back home, is puzzling his owner. Pierson moved recently from Sheerness, on the isle of Sheppey, to Hertz. The only means of access to the isle of Sheppey is by way of the King's Ferry bridge. The cat found the crossing and traveled the 80 miles back to the old home, where he remained until found.

Biblical Shield in Charm

Mahzel, a device taken from the shield of David, and which has been carried by devout Jews for 5,500 years, is being commercialized in Europe as a lucky charm. The fad started when it was told that Levine had the sign on his airplane when he flew the Atlantic. Mahzel also appears on the ark in all synagogues.

Too swift for those who fear
Too long for those who grieve
Too short for those who rejoice
But for those who love, Time is eternity"

UNUSUAL GOOD THINGS

Where green peppers are reasonable in price at this time of year the following soup may be often served:

Green Pepper Soup.—Wash six green peppers and remove the stems and seeds, as well as the white fiber. Cut the peppers into small pieces and cook in boiling salted water until tender. Drain, reserving two cupfuls of the pepper liquor. Put the peppers through a sieve and add to the pepper stock. Melt five tablespoonfuls of butter in a saucepan, add five tablespoonfuls of flour and cook until well blended. Add the puree with three cupfuls of milk, two teaspoonfuls of salt and a few dashes of cayenne. Sprinkle with paprika and serve.

Illinois Beefsteak.—Select a thick, large sirloin or porterhouse steak—one that is sure to be tender. Heat a large frying pan very hot, grease very lightly with a bit of the suet from the steak and pan-broil the steak until nearly done, then spread it with butter, salt and enough mixed mustard to add piquancy and complete the cooking, turning once more. Place a generous lump of butter on a hot platter to melt, turn the steak onto it and cover thickly with chopped pickled walnuts. Pour into the frying pan a cupful of fresh coffee infusion, boil up once and pour round the steak. Serve at once.

Oxtail Soup.—This is a very popular cold-weather soup. To make two quarts of soup, take one oxtail and separate it into pieces. Cook these in a little suet until nicely brown, add two tablespoonfuls of flour, then very gradually two quarts of brown stock; bring to the boiling point, then simmer, adding a half cupful of celery, a sprig of chopped parsley, a small onion and one-half cupful of carrots and turnips cut into dice. Just before serving add a teaspoonful of worcestershire sauce. More liquid may be needed; if so add boiling water.

White Stock.—Take a three-pound shin of veal, one cupful each of chopped celery and onion, two sprigs of parsley, a small bit of bay leaf, three teaspoonfuls of salt, one-fourth teaspoonful of white pepper and three quarts of cold water. Remove all the meat from the bone and cut it into small pieces; place half the meat with the bones in cold water and let stand for half an hour. In the meantime brown the rest of the meat in butter, until a rich color. This adds both color and flavor to the stock. Keep merely at the simmering point for three hours, if the heat is kept very low. Strain and set away to cool. When cold remove the grease. The vegetables are added as the meat is put on in the cold water.

Soups and Other Dishes.

Soup is one of the most popular of all our dishes. It may be nourishing and a full meal, or stimulating and taken as the beginning to a hearty meal.

Meats such as roasts, steaks, chops and boiling pieces must be subjected at the beginning of their preparation to an intense heat which will sear the entire surface, so that every bit of juice and nutriment may be retained inside.

When making soup the opposite effect is desired. The juices and extractives must be drawn out to flavor the soup. No temperature at boiling should ever be reached, but a slow simmering, dropping the meat finely divided into cold water and heating it slowly.

Brown stock is prepared from beef, beef bones and vegetables of rich color. White stock is prepared from veal, veal bones and such vegetables as celery and onions with parsley as flavor.

The bones should be cracked so that every bit of marrow and bone flavor reaches the broth. Each pound of meat and bone needs a quart of water and each quart of soup a teaspoonful of salt with a heaping tablespoonful of whatever vegetable is used for flavor. A rich stock kept from the day before, carefully skimmed of fat, may be diluted with any vegetable liquor at hand, to give variety and flavor. The liquor from canned vegetables should never be thrown away, as it is rich in flavor as well at vitamines. Tomato juice is especially valuable in all dishes where it may be used.

Soup stock, besides being a good dish for the beginning of a meal, is a good base for any number of gravies and vegetable soups. A can of commercial soup may, with some homemade soup stock, make a most satisfying soup.

Brown stock is prepared just as above, using beef instead of veal and such vegetables as carrot and turnip together with onion and celery.

EAST FAILS TO GET GOLF GAMES

Chicago Is Allotted Many Interesting Tournaments.

It has been many a long year since the eastern section of the United States was awarded so few big golf tournaments. And practically all of the tournaments have been awarded.

The amateur goes to Brae Burn, near Boston; the open is to be played at Olympia fields, near Chicago; the international matches for the Walker cup will be played at Wheaton. The solons have sent the women's national into the sticks—to Hot Springs—and there's no chance of getting the P. G. A.

All of which leaves the metropolitan district, the largest section in the United States, with no prominent tournaments except its own local events, the Metropolitan Amateur and open. This condition presages a rather dull tournament season in these parts, but, if it does nothing else, it means a lot of action around Boston and Chicago.

It is doubtful if any section ever had as many interesting events as falls to the lot of Chicago this summer. The Open, the Walker Cup, the Western Open, Western Amateur, Western Women's and a flock of other events—that is unprecedented. It seems as if a determined attempt is being made to satiate Chicago golfers. Or else the solons aim to stimulate interest to fever pitch. It is doubtful which of the two is correct. Nevertheless, the Chicago district is to be rich in tournaments.

Thus far the only event on the horizon in the East is the New York State Amateur, an interesting affair, but by no means a major event. The public links championship is to be played on the famous Cobbie Creek layout, near Philadelphia, but that still is not in the metropolitan district.

From 1895, when the first official amateur championship was held at Newport, until 1906 some 36 events were played and all but nine were held in the East, around New York, Philadelphia or Boston. However, since 1906 there has been a change of venue. The West, principally Chicago, has held just as many tourneys of national importance as the metropolitan district.

Jockey in Limelight

Riding with the reckless abandon of his forefathers, an Indian jockey has crashed into the limelight of the Tia Juana racetrack. He is Jockey J. Frye, a full-blooded Klamath Indian who lives in Myrtle Point, Ore. The other day Jockey Frye, riding his first winner, piloted the two-year-old Valucia to its "maiden" victory.

Nemo Leibold Only New A. A. Manager

With one exception, all of the A. A. teams will face the barrier in April with the same leadership as in 1927. The change is at Columbus, where no season is complete without from one to three pilots—Nemo Leibold, succeeding Ivy Wingo.

The others are lined up this way: Jack Lelivelt, Milwaukee; Nick Allen, St. Paul; Mike Kelley, Minneapolis; Dutch Zwilling, Kansas City; Casey Stengel, Toledo; Bill Meyer, Louisville; Bruno Betzel, Indianapolis.

Jack Delaney to Train by Continued Fighting

Jack Delaney is going to do his training in the heavyweight campaign against active opponents in the roped arena, Joe Jacobs, his manager, declared.

"Delaney figures he can keep in better condition by taking on one opponent a week than if he settled down in any training camp," Jacobs said. "Jack is willing to battle on the basis of a fight a week."

Numerous opponents are in prospect for the Bridgeporter, including the rugged Jack Renault, who may be secured for a bout at St. Louis.

SOUND SNAKE ADVICE

"India," said the cobra snake, "is our home. "We do a great deal of harm. Of that I am proud. They say that we cause the loss of thousands of people every year.

"Don't be noble, young cobra, and don't be gentle. Do you hear me, hiss, hiss?

"But we have an enemy, a terrible, terrible enemy. Many stories have been written about him and his name is the mongoose.

"He is a little animal. His size can be compared to that of a ferret's, and he is supposed to be a cousin of that family.

"You must watch out for him.

"The mongoose will jump and hurry about a poor snake, getting a snake all mixed up and quite dizzy.

"But he won't get dizzy himself.

The Old Cobra.

No, he will only make the nice cobra dizzy.

"Then he will spring at the cobra."

"Oh, oh," hissed the young cobra.

"Yes, he will spring at the cobra," angrily hissed the old cobra, "and he will put his mean, contemptible, horrid, sharp little teeth into the spine of a fine cobra snake.

"He will go for a cobra's beautiful snake throat. He will escape, like the quick little creature that he is.

"People say they like the mongoose because they say he destroys and kills us and we are so dangerous.

"But I think that is a very rude thing, both to think and say. But then we don't like people, so it is natural they shouldn't like us.

"The mongoose is their friend, but he is our enemy.

"So, young cobra, keep out of the way of a mongoose. That is sound snake advice, that is."

Boys Will Be Authors

Boys will be boys, but the Boy Scouts of America has determined to show them also as authors. The February issue of its magazine, Boys' Life, is given over to its members and other boys. Fifteen major features are written by them. Such a high standard in text and illustration is maintained that it is difficult to realize that a large part of the issue is entirely the work of boys, most of them making their first appearance in print.

The ten short stories, all contributed by boys, display the wide interest of these young authors. The grasp of the technique of the short story shown by these boys is impressive. It is typically boy stuff in that quite a number of them are humorously inclined. Indian, mystery, sleuthing—these fall so naturally under boy interest that you are not surprised to find them having a prominent place in the settings these boys picked for their stories.

The fact narratives—especially the account of the Borden cruise in the Arctic, on which The Northern Light was manned entirely by scouts, written by one of them—are most interesting.

School Boy Howler

Here is an amusing essay by a schoolboy on "Ducks": The duck is a low, heavy-set bird, composed mostly of meat and feathers. He is a mighty poor singer, having a hearse voice, caused by getting too many frogs in his throat. He likes the water and carries a toy balloon in his stomach to keep him from sinking.

The duck has only two legs, and they are set so far back on his running gear by nature that they come pretty near missing his body. Some ducks, when they get big, have curls on their tails and are called drakes. Drakes don't have to sit and hatch, but just loaf about and go on swimming, and eating everything in sight. If I was to be a duck I would rather be a drake.

Too Soon to Tell

Charlie had been playing truant from school, and had spent a long, beautiful day in fishing. On his way back, he met one of his mates, who accosted him with the usual question, "Catch anything?"

Charlie, in all the consciousness of guilt, quickly responded: "Ain't been home yet!"

Breaking Her Own Rule

CALIFORNIA NEWS BRIEFS

Two men under sentence of death were received at San Quentin a few days ago and locked in condemned-row awaiting the call of the hangman. They are Clarence "Buck" Kelly, San Francisco terror bandit, and Edgar LaPierre, convicted of killing an Oakland police inspector. The new arrivals brought the number in condemned-row to six. La Pierre is scheduled to hang April 27; Kelly May 11.

Folsom's six Thanksgiving day murderers who escaped the noose through an unusual jury verdict at Sacramento last week, are to be tried again for their lives. District Attorney Neil R. McAllister announced that the sextet, already convicted of the first degree murder of Guard Ray Singleton, will be prosecuted a second time for the slaying of George "Red" Baker, Folsom trusty who was shot to death in the prison revolt of last November.

Declaring that the State Park Bond Act, if ratified, will gain for California $12,000,000 worth of parks through the expenditure of $6,000,000, Duncan McDuffie, chairman of the California State Parks Council, addressed a meeting of the council in the Palace Hotel, San Francisco, a few days ago. The meeting was held to discuss ways and means of carrying on the campaign for the passage of the bond issue, which will come before the voters of the state at the election in November, 1928.

Construction of a $3,000,000 Federal building on the Civic Center was assured at San Francisco a few days ago, with word from Washington that President Coolidge had signed the new $100,000,000 public buildings appropriation bill. Ten million dollars out of the national appropriation will be spent in California, it was announced. Oakand will get a new $1,000,000 postoffice to be erected near the site of the present building. Besides the Federal buildings at San Francisco on the Civic Center, many thousands will be devoted to remodeling the postoffice building in Seventh street to provide two extra courtrooms and other improvements.

Reckless and intoxicated California motorists caused 9,159 accidents involving either injury or death, during 1927. This is shown in records of the state division of motor vehicles, as forwarded in reports by police departments and traffic officers throughout the state. The records place the number who died during the year from motor accidents at 1,651, those seriously injured at 4,277, and those receiving minor injuries at 14,091.

Statement of plans of the Western Air Express, Inc., of Los Angeles, to conduct air passenger service between Los Angeles and San Francisco were confirmed last week by Harry Guggenheim, president of the Guggenheim Foundation to Promote Aeronautics. An equipment trust loan has been made to the Western Air Express for the purchase of three fourteen-passenger Fokker planes for use on the Los Angeles-San Francisco route, it was stated.

Earl E. Jensen, state director of institutions, within thirty days will ask Governor C. C. Young to approve a location for temporary quarters to treat California's narcotic addicits. Jensen indicated that it will be at one of the state hospitals. Eventually it is planned to establish a separate institution for treating addicts. As soon as the governor's approval is secured, work will be rushed in providing quarters and equipment and establishing a personnel. "It is planned to employ the latest, most humane and scientific methods of treatment, to furnish supervision after the patients have been discharged from the institution, and to render assistance in securing employment and proper placement," Jensen said.

Employment of California residents, and especially those with families, on highway construction projects, in preference to transients drawn here by the mild winter weather, was recommended by Governor C. C. Young to B. B. Meek, director of the state department of public works last week. The Governor at the same time complimented Meek and other highway officials on their announced program of hastening opening of spring highway work so the unemployment situation may be relieved. Governor Young also has urged the division of highways and the division of architecture to work with the state's free employment agencies when the need for labor arises. The state bureaus, he pointed out, by co-operating with all the other agencies, are in touch with the most desirable labor supply and can fill any needs.

Immediate construction of the causeway over Sutter-Butte by-pass, which will improve Northern California highway connections and facilitate travel conditions between the Northern counties and the San Francisco bay district was ordered last week with the award of a contract by the state department of public works. The causeway, on the highway between Yuba City, Sutter county and Woodland, Yolo county, is to be built by the Morrison Knudson Company of Boise, Idaho, the contract involving $228,134.20.

"First Aid—Home Remedy Week" Coming

The National Association of Retail Druggists is urging greater advertising publicity for "First Aid--Home Remedy Week," fixed for March 18-24. This "sales baby," dedicated to the druggists of America by Sterling Products (Incorporated) is seven years old this month. It has scored six successive triumphs, and Secretary Samuel C. Henry, in urging the general adoption of the national slogan, "Fill That Medicine Chest Now," says: "Unpreparedness is seldom, if ever, due to willful neglect, but generally attributable to thoughtlessness or lack of foresight."

With the aid of "Little Johnny Advertising," the sponsors of this national merchandising campaign, which is really a drive against needless suffering, hope to induce householders to be better able to cope with sudden illness and unforeseen accident.

REDUCED LIGHTING RATES IN EFFECT

Reduced lighting rates for all customers of the Pacific Gas and Electric Company became effective March 1. The reduction in the combination domestic schedule will be effective on April 1.

These reductions in rates will result in an average saving of more than 10 per cent to consumers. The total reduction, it is stated, will amount to approximately $1,750,000 a year, which is said to represent the largest voluntary reduction ever made by a utility corporation in the west.

According to J. D. Kuster, division manager of the company, this is the third substantial reduction in electric rates made by the company since 1920, notwithstanding the fact that labor and materials entering into the operating costs are approximately 50 per cent above pre-war levels.

Mr. Kuster further states that these reductions are made possible by direct economies in operation; by the construction of larger and more efficient units of production and transmission; by reduced unit costs applied to the greater volume of business done; savings through re-financing; by enlarging the field of operation and increasing the diversity and volume of business through the acquisition of other properties.

The new lighting schedules which are in effect now, carry a greater reduced maximum rate for energy. Upon application from the domestic consumer qualifying, there is offered a new rate for combined use of light and heat, or power. This new domestic combination schedule will apply to lighting consumers, who, in addition use electric appliances, totaling 1,000 watts or more, such as electric irons, toasters, heaters, etc. As an example, in the bay area a domestic customer formerly paying $3.30 will now pay $2.60 a month, a saving of $8.40 a year, or a reduction greater than two and one-half months' bill, under the former lighting rate. In all territory where a like amount of electric energy is used, bills will be reduced in similar proportion. Under the new domestic schedule, rates as low as 1½ cents per kilowatt hour will be available.

PREPARE FOR FIRE

The National Board of Fire Underwriters, in a recent issue of Safeguarding America From Fire, said regarding the nation's great fire losses, that "carelessness linked with false economy in disregard of fire safety may eventually cause an economic disaster to this naturally rich country."

Chief Engineer W. F. Setffins of the fire protection bureau of the New York Central Railroad, supports this by adding his comment that advanced living demands advanced protection.

"Contrast," said Steffins, the standard of living fiftey years ago with that of today, in the average home, not only as far as food is concerned, but also with reference to such incidenal details as heating, lighting, plumbing, ventilation, interior decoration, telephone, radio, pronograph, vitaphone, moving pictures, etc. In brief, while we live in an age of marvels, as viewed from the standard of fifty years ago, do we appreciate these comforts and privileges sufficiently to be willing to protect them? They are the direct products of man's own labor and brains, yet the absence of application of brains of the most elementary character too frequently is the direct cause of the destruction in a few minutes of these comforts and conveniences that have been created by so many years of effort.

"The most striking illustration of destructive forces due to lack of application of brains is reflected in the national fire loss. Fire, one of the most useful agents in the service of man, becomes a hostile agency in careless hands, one that annihilates annually, in the United States and Canada, property valued at almost $600,000,000, an amount increasing annually at such a rate as to warrant every effort to control this uselsss waste."

SUMMONS TO ESTABLISH TITLE

Action No. 13876.

In the Superior Court of the State of California, in and for the County of San Mateo.

Matthew C. Callan, Plaintiff, vs. All persons claiming any interest in, or lien upon, the real property herein described or any part thereof, defendants.

THE PEOPLE OF THE STATE OF CALIFORNIA:

To all persons claiming any interest in, or lien upon, the real property herein described or any part thereof, defendants, greeting:

You are hereby notified to appear and answer the complaint of Matthew C. Callan, plaintiff, filed with the Clerk of the above entitled Court and County, within three months after the first publication of this Summons, and to set forth what interest or lien, if any, you have in or upon that certain real property or any part thereof, situated in the County of San Mateo, State of California, particularly described as follows:

All of Lots 1 and 4 of West End Homestead Association as per map thereof filed in the office of the Recorder of the City and County of San Francisco, State of California, March 26, 1863, and recorded in Book "C" and "D" of Maps, at page 63, and also as per map entitled "Map of the Property of the West End Homestead Association", filed for record in the office of the Recorder of the County of San Mateo, State of California, on January 25, 1865, in Liber 4 of Deeds, at page 415.

And you are hereby notified that, unless you so appear and answer, the plaintiff will apply to the Court for the relief demanded in the complaint, to-wit: That it be adjudged that the plaintiff is the owner of said property in fee simple absolute; that his title to said property be established and quieted; that the Court ascertain and determine all estates, rights, titles, interests and claims in and to said property, and every part thereof, whether the same be legal or equitable, present or future, vested or contingent, and whether the same consists of mortgages or liens of any description; that plaintiff recover his costs herein and have such other and further relief as may be meet in the premises.

Witness my hand and the seal of this Court.

Dated December 23, 1927.

(SEAL.)

ELIZABETH M. KNEESE, Clerk.

By G. R. WINTER, Deputy Clerk.

Franklin Swart, Attorney for Plaintiff.

GEARS FAILED TO MESH; DRIVER GETS IN BAD

Oscar Gustafson, 2805 San Jose avenue, suffered internal injuries last Sunday when an automobile he was driving crashed into another machine driven by Lawrence McCune, of San Francisco. His condition is reported serious. According to the police, Gustafson was driving and tried to shift gears on a steep grade. The gears failed to mesh and the car backed down the grade and struck the other machine.

"AMBULANCE CHASING" UNDER STATE BAR BAN

The elimination of "ambulance chasing" and the curbing of the encouragement of litigation are among the subjects being considered by the board of governors of the State Bar of California in the formulation of rules of personal conduct for the goverment of lawyers.

For years these practices on the part of certain small groups of lawyers have been a public scandal, tending to bring the profession into disrepute and to burden individuals unfortunate enough to have suffered injury at the hands of public utility corporations and others with contracts calling for the payment of unconscionable fees that at times deprived litigants of much of the fruits of their litigation.

The Board of Governors believes that it is acting in the public interest in thus endeavoring to curb the encouragement of litigation. The condition sought to be remedied is not common to California but is receiving the attention of bar associations in every state and particularly every large center of population in the United States.

ANOTHER GOOD PROGRAM AT THE STATE THEATRE

For the coming week the State Theatre has provided another exceptionally good program for the patrons of this popular amusement place.

This Saturday, March 10, there will be two high class pictures, Dorothy Gish in "Madame Pompadour," and Joseph Schildkraut in "The Heart Thief." The two pictures to be presented on Sunday, March 11, will be Thomas Meighan in "The City Gone Wild," and Louise Fazenda in "Footloose Widows." On Monday and Tuesday, March 12 and 13, Hobart Bosworth in "The Blood Ship," one of the most interesting and exciting pictures of the year. On Wednesday and Thursday, March 14 and 15, Clara Bow in "Get Your Man," one of the dainty little actresses' best pictures. On Friday, March 16, Bert Lytell and Lois Wilson in "Alias the Lone Wolf." Friday night will be Novely Nite, and all who attend are guaranteeed a most interesting evening.

Oakland Plans World Trade Fair

The plans for an international trade fair to be held in 1929 were announced yesterday following a meeting of 200 business leaders of Oakland. According to present plans, the fair will be modeled after the famous exposition at Leipzig, Germany, and will be held from August to October.

Houston opens its new airport this month, probably in anticipation of the hot air to be generated in that vicinity during the convention.

—A customer started telling us about the wonderful bargains he got in a mail order tire.

—We showed him our Goodyears. Gave him the price—no postage, no draft or money order—no express or parcel post charges—no delay no mounting cost.

—He buys Goodyear Tires now. He has decided he was wrong in buying tires without seeing what he was buying. But he's right now. You can't go wrong when you buy Goodyear Tires.

STAGE DRIVER ACQUITTED OF MANSLAUGHTER CHARGE

Manslaughter charges against C. E. Trude, of Los Altos, driver of a stage in which three passengers were killed near Belmont on January 2, were dismissed when Trude was arraigned yesterday afternoon before Superior Judge George H. Buck at Redwood City. Judge Buck declared there was nothing in the record of the preliminary hearing to warrant holding the stage driver for trial on a charge of manslaughter.

Three passengers in a bus of the Pacific Auto Stages, driven by Trude, were killed when the bus collided with an automobile driven by Frank O'Connell, of San Francisco. Several persons were injured, three of them passengers in the O'Connell machine.

VOLUME I FRIDAY, MARCH 9, 1928 NUMBER 32

Published in the interests of the People of Daly City and vicinity by H. H. Smith and Employees.

Home is a place where a man can do as he chooses, provided what he chooses is agreeable with what his wife wants done.

Teacher: "Now, how old would a person be who was born in 1890?"

Bright Pupil: "Man or woman?"

"ABERDEEN" and American Block—the Coals that satisfy.

Cheer Up

The less you have, the more there is to get.

Build a Home First,
Build with might,
Build with wood,
And Build it right.
Build a Home First,
It's understood,
The very best homes
Are built of wood.

Is your kitchen convenient? Would not some built-in features lighten the daily household tasks? We can help you plan them.

Guest: "Delightful party your'e having tonight, old man. I understand it is for your wife."

Host: "Yes, it is the 12th anniversary of her 30th birthday."

Getting the most out of the customer by giving him the most is the secret of business success.

"My son writes that he is in a tight place."

"And what's the trouble."

"He's a waiter in Scotland."

Smiling is an art—not difficult to master, and soon becomes a habit.

If you want what you cannot gain, learn to desire what you may obtain.

The house had been rapidly built and occupied.

"Do you find the place comfortable and substantially built," asked the landlord.

"Well," said the tenant, "I always go outside to sneeze."

When its building material you need, see H. H. Smith.
